My favourite part

My favourite part of the trip was definitely visiting the remains of the Berlin Wall. It really put everything into perspective, it made everything seem real in a way that I didn't think it could have to me. I found out a lot of information and I have to admit I did find the messages that had been put on the wall extremely hard hitting. I did not expect to be affected by the trip as much as I was, I found having the experience made it much easier to process the information given. The entire trip was brilliant and it gave me an even bigger love for history as I was completely and utterly captivated and intrigued throughout the whole journey.
